

La Manga Club has launched a new all-inclusive package for people taking holidays in Spain this summer.

The popular resort is giving guests the opportunity to stay at Las Lomas Village and dine in a number of bars and restaurants across the complex from € 160 (£152) per adult per night.

All-inclusive packages, which are available throughout July and August, also include daily Junior Club sessions for four children and complimentary access to the spa facility, as well as tennis court rental.

A family of four can holiday at the resort for a week from just € 2,280.

Breaks taken between July 1st and September 15th are covered by La Manga Club's ash guarantee, which means guests will not be made to pay a cancellation charge if their flight is delayed due to the ash cloud.

Located in Murcia, the resort boasts 28 multi-surface tennis courts, three championship golf courses and several swimming pools.
